DETAILED ACTION

Specification

Applicant is reminded of the proper language and format for an abstract of the disclosure.

The abstract should be in narrative form and generally limited to a single paragraph on a separate sheet within the range of 50 to 150 words. It is important that the abstract not exceed 150 words in length since the space provided for the abstract on the computer tape used by the printer is limited. The form and legal phraseology often used in patent claims, such as "means" and "said," should be avoided. The abstract should describe the disclosure sufficiently to assist readers in deciding whether there is a need for consulting the full patent text for details.

The language should be clear and concise and should not repeat information given in the title. It should avoid using phrases which can be implied, such as, "The disclosure concerns," "The disclosure defined by this invention," "The disclosure describes," etc.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the Japanese '685 publication (Japan) in view of Fletcher et al and Ballu. Japan discloses the basic apparatus for crushing slag matter including a pressure housing, a roll with cutting knives, inclined baffle plates, and stationary knives associated with one of the baffle plates. The stationary knives are horizontally oriented which may result in incomplete or inefficient cutting of the material. Ballu solves this problem by showing similar apparatus including the use of curved stationary knives; see element 15. In order to ensure complete and efficient cutting, it would have been obvious for one of ordinary skill in the art to modify Japan by using curved stationary knives, taught to be desirable by Ballu. The roll of Japan is located along the centerline of the housing which limits the crushing area. Fletcher et al solves this problem by disclosing similar apparatus including the use of a roll with cutting knives, the roll being offset from the housing axis. In order to increase cutting area and to obtain the inherent advantages, it would have been obvious for one of ordinary skill in the art to modify Japan by offsetting the roll in relation to the housing axis, taught to be desirable by Fletcher et al.

Note that the use of wear coatings to decrease maintenance costs is well known in the art and of no patentable merit.
